

A True Trip Through The Cosmos...

Above and Beyond never fails to amaze me. Their recent track Distorted Truth has all us trance lovers raging. We get all the feels and that upbeat tempo all in all the matter of 4 minutes and 19 seconds. Jono, Tony, and Paavo have mastered this skill for years and always keep us on our toes. Their music takes us on a roller coaster (or space ship) journey.

The track has been dropped multiple times throughout their sets and I'm finally happy they released the long-anticipated track. The track takes you on a journey just like it did for me. In admiration of the track, I'm getting ready to take you on a journey of literature through music. Not only give this song a 5-star rating but also take you on a trip to the cosmos.

Track Review: Distorted Truth With Above & Beyond

Rocketship preparing for takeoff. Blasting off into the orbit at 18,000 miles per hour. Hitting some rocky turbulence but it's still a smooth ride. Space cadets are holding on and getting ready to hit the dawn of the universe. The lights are flickering and everyone is holding their breath just thinking of Issac's Newton third law of motion. It's time to "Push the Button" and let gravity do its thing. Hearts are beating fast but this will be a trip of a lifetime.

Time is still...

You can't even hear your thoughts. You finally decide to open your eyes and there it is. The galaxies hues of blues, reds, and purples. A sight that our human senses can barely make sense of but evokes the mind. The solar system is glistening from the reflection of the stars. You almost forget you're human for a second. You're just drifting into the extraterrestrial abyss floating in space. Previous aircraft wreckage slowly passing by. "You're half a world away but in my mind, I whisper every single word you say and before you sleep at night you pray to me your lucky star your singing satellite."

You see the "Sun and Moon" from a different perspective...

You start to realize you kind of miss home and want to get back to your loved ones and tell them all about your cosmic venture. Direction heading back to earth. The space ship zooming back home at record speed. *Waves at the little green man* we are safely back in Earth's atmosphere. Until our next space expedition, we'll meet again.

Now I know what you're thinking. "What did I just read?" (Now you want to try reading again but with the headphones this time) Even if you're not a trance lover I know this had to have blown your mind somehow! This is how I felt and what I pictured when listening to this track. I escaped from reality (my mind in the clouds, literally) and let the music take me to another dimension. I hope you enjoyed our first trip together and Above and Beyond's Distorted Truth with me! Until next time little dreamers, stay PLUR.
