

Spinnin' Sessions: MightyFools Guest Mix

Looking for some groovy dance beats? Leave the keys in your pocket, this set is push to start. MightyFools, an old favorite of mine, based out the Netherlands, are here with their guest mix for Spinnin' Sessions. These cats started in 2008 & have been keeping my head bobbing since I heard a set of there's in 2009. An eclectic style of everything fun, hard, and energized; these two aren't scared to go from bass-y house to the dirtiest trap.

Opening with the normal Spinnin' Sessions releases, the first 30 minute build you up with some terrific tracks filled with funky bass lines I've never heard before with some uplifting house tracks that do NOT disappoint.

But the magic starts around minute 30 when the MightyFools jump on the decks & kick it up a notch. One of my favorite hits come on that I haven't heard since Jack U did a 24 hour live stream party a couple years ago, around minute 32:00. Fuck you MightyFools, I'm hooked. Honestly don't care what the real name is, but as I call it "Bubbly Lazers", has me bouncing in my office chair and my boss looks convinced that i'm mentally unstable. He's not that far off from being right.

This mix will keep you bopping around from beginning to end, especially with a few new tracks they introduced during the mix. Just overall, super fun and bouncy all throughout. I'm at work you savages, stop making me dance!
